He traveled on the car to South Framingham, and then bade the President good bye. When the platform at Fail River was reached at 7:10 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Choate escorted Gen. Harrison through the lines of spectators to the steamer Pilgrim. Those who were on the upper deck leaned over and cheered the President as he went on board, while others joined in greeting him as he walked through the saloon. An interesting statement was just then made that ex-President Cleveland would travel on a later boat tonight.

LAND-GRABBERS.

How They Have Plied Their Calling in Idaho.

Shoshone (Idaho), Aug. 15.—[By the Associated Press.] The agents looking up ness of nobody. fraudulent land and water-right entries are making important discoveries. The upper Blackfoot River has fine natural meadows covered by desert entries. One tract of 11,000 acres is claimed by prominent Utah Mormons, who have 10 mowing-machines cutting thousands of tons of hay cutting thousands of tons of hay every season. Notwithstanding that the land is river-irrigated, that locality is so far away from travel and settlement that it is a good midway place for stock run out of Utah to evade the vigilant church receiver. Large herus of such stock are reported in that vicinity. Prosecutions are promised for placing these lands back in the public domain, while examples are likely to be made and some of the offenders will be charged with perjury.

Terry's Funeral — His Will to Be Contested by His Son Clinton.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—[Special.]
Sheriff Cunningham of San Joaquin county arrived from Stockton shortly before 9 o'clock tonight with a warrant sworn out by Sarah Althea Terry for the arrest of Justice Field as an accessory to the alleged "murder" of her husband, David S. Terry. Many reporters, officers and citizens were waiting at the Palace Hotel, expecting Cunningham to go direct to Justice Field's room and serve the warrant, but instead the Sheriff went to the Lick House, intending to remain there till morning before taking any action. Meanwhile, Marshal Franks had prepared himself with the necessary legal documents, and it was said by several officials near the person of the Justice that all Federal legal remedies would be exhausted before Field should be taken to Stockton. The District Attorney of San here for yielding to the clamor of Mrs. Terry and issuing a warrant for the arrest of Field on the oath of a notorious woman who did not even see the shooting. A CONSPIRACY AGAINST FIELD. The conviction is strong that the move-ment to take Field to Stockton is a con-spiracy to first humiliate and degrade him and then to get him in the range of the desperate woman's handy "gun," so that he could be killed. I may say on direct authority that this is Justice Field's own conviction.

In confirmation of this impression I heard late last night a statement coming from a man, who was at Stockton teday, who says that he heard Terry's widow, while standing over the dead body of her husband. SWEAR WITH UPLIFTED HAND that Field should be brought to

All reports agree that she has worked herself into a state of desperate frenzy, so that she is now more than ever thoroughly murderous mood. She brooded over Field's connection the death of her husband she pretends to believe that

"A HOLY SHOW." A curious and grotesque report comes from Stockton about the funeral. It is said that the Terry family made a "bad break" in fixing the funeral for Friday, as on that day the place is duil, few people from the country being in town; whereas, if the funeral had been set for the last day of the week it would have been much more largely attended, as "all the ranchers come to town on Saturday." There is no doubt but an effort is making by Terry's partisans for the organization of a great d stration at the funeral, to make it, in fact, "a holy show," a sort of gruesome circus, where the whole "monster aggregation" of curiosity hunters will be combined under one tent, and "all for a single price of admission." The effort will not, however, mission." onstituted authorities. NAGLE WILL BE PROTECTED.

Justice Field is cool, calm and confident, Justice Field is cool, calm and confident, and does not expect to make a trip to Stockton at present. Marshai Franks is active alert, and sure of his ground legally. He will move actively in behalf of his subordinate now confined in the Stockton jail, and will exhaust all legal remedies to secure his release, or the handling of his case by the Federal instead of the State authorities.

HONORS TO JUSTICE FIELD. Justice Field's room was all day yester-day, last night and today the scene of activity. A constant stream of caliers was coming and going, their business being coming and going, teaer business being mainly to pay their respects and congratulate the venerable jurist on his escape from harm and on his admirable personal bearing. A large package of congratulatory telegrams lay upon his table this evening. They were from distinguished persons in Washington and the East. H. G. O.

THE GARRETT CASE.

TESTIMONY FOR THE PROSE CUTION ALL IN.

And the Defense Begins-Garrett's Letters to His Daughter Read in Court—A Peculiar Little Transaction of Miss Maila's Brought to Light.

As heretofore indicated by the questions of Attorney Williams in the Garrett incest case, when the defense began yesterday it was seen that it is intended to break down and degrade the prosecuting witness, Mrs. Edgecomb, if possible; to impeach her testimony by befouling and defiling her. so that no one will believe her sad story to be a true one. It is not a pleasant task, but Mr. Williams and Mr. Garrett entered upon the plan of campaign with great vigor and behind a mass of questions written out and evidently carefully prepared. The prosecution closed its case early in the afternoon, and only two witnesses for the defense had been on the standwhen the adjournment until morning was taken.

when the adjournment until morning was taken.

When court convened in the morning spectators were excluded as usual, and J. W. Glendell, a painter, was examined in regard to Capt. Garrett's treatment of Maila, his daughter, at their home on Wilson court, a year ago. The witness heard Garrett scolding his daughter for losing a saw, and the little girl Ella Garrett ran to him and told him that her father was beating Maila. He spoke to Maila and asked her why she did not complain about her father. She replied that she was afraid that if she did he would kill her.

The next witness was W. A. Strat-

The next witness was W. A. Strat-The next witness was W. A. Stratton of No. 308 Bellevue avenue, president and manager of the Union Lumber and Supply Company, who has figured conspicuously in the case as one of the bondsmen of Edgecomb after the latter was arrested. He testified of follows:

after the latter was arrested. He testified as follows:

"I have lived in Los Angeles seven years and have known Capt. Garrett two years. About a year and a half ago I saw Maila Garrett at the Bellevue-avenue Methodist Church. I have had a number of conversations with the defendant in the last three or four weeks about the prosecution of Edge-comb. He came into my office about two weeks before Edgecomb was arrested to see what I knew about him. He told me he was terribly enraged over the seduction of his daughter by Edgecomb, and that the latter was very near a coroner's inquest. After Edgecomb's arrest and marriage to Maila Garrett the defendant asked me to call at his house, which I did. Garvue-avenue Methodist Church. I have to call at his house, which I did. Garrett told me of many troubles he had had with his daughter, and said Edge-comb would get a divorce. He also told me that he intended to have told me that he intended to have the charge of abortion dismissed, and would send Ella to school in New York before Edgecomb's trial on the charge of rape, so that the whole mat-ter would drop. He sent a message to Maila by me that she was not to dig up dirt. Garrett requested me to get

At the afternoon session Mr. Stratton was recalled, and testified further as follows:

"Miss Garrett told me I was the first one to whom she told her troubles. Mr. Garrett came to my office, and in conversation he urged me to tell May not to dig up dirt; that if she did it would be worse for her. I told him there was something queer about the case—something held back. He said: 'If there is anything secret it is some of her lies.' Mrs. Edgecomb came into my office. I asked her why her father was so anxious. She began crying, and I said: 'Don't tell it if you don't want to.' She said she wanted to, and told me the story of now her father had misused her. St. Louis was the seat of the first trouble. She made me promise I would not tell it, but after I heard it I was not disposed to keep it. She let me tell Mr. Wicks and Mrs. Watson."

a letter of many endearing terms. In it the writer gave her a great deal of advice, and moralized upon the traps around girls in this wicked world by which they are easily ensnared. He counseled her to be good, and become a star in the sky of their domestic life.

Another letter was also introduced. Another letter was also introduced, of the same general character and very long. In it advice and reproaches were pretty evenly divided. He narrated the story of an Anna Lewis in New Orleans, who had gone to the bad, and advised his daughter to avoid the downward path. He reproached her with never having appreciated all that he had done for her, and that she had brought gray hairs to his head. During the reading of the letters both the witness and the defendant exhibited much emotion. Another letter him with affection and contrition, was read and introduced as evidence.

There was much wrangling by counsel over the production of other letters by the witness, and Mr. Williams finally got out a subpœna for all letters to be produced this morning.

The witness was then asked to tell about her obtaining a corset, which had been called by Mr. Williams obtaining property under false pretenses. She said that one day a lady came to the house with corsets. She had none, and needed one. Her father would not get any, and she told the lady she had no money to pay, intending to sell some other things she had, however, and pay for them. The lady said she would come around the next week. She gave her the name of Mrs. Smith. She did get the corsets. The lady called, and she did not yet have the money. The lady went to Capt. Garrett's office, who came over, and they found out she had given the wrong name. Then she paid the lady by giving her a wrap that was worth $2. The transaction was not creditable to the witness, and was made the most of by Mr. Williams. witness, and was made the most of by Mr. Williams.

Mr. Williams.

Mrs. Edgecomb was cross-examined about the letters, about her remarks to Josle Corbett; nearly all of the testimony being unfit for publication, but bringing out no new points, and when she left the stand the prosecution closed, except as to rebuttal testimony.

The Defense. The first witness for the defense was a middle-aged woman, Mrs. Annie Farrell, who testified: "I live at No. 11 South Los Angeles street. I am married and have children. I know Capt. Garrett and Mrs. Edgecomb. They were at my lodging house two years ago. Mr. Garrett came one evening while I was in bed, and wantevening while I was in bed, and wanted a room. I gave him one and laid down a bed on the floor for Maila. He staid one month in my house in one room. There was a double-bed and a oot in the room. It was difficult to find rooms. My house was 314 West Third street. Capt. Garrett brought Maila some dresses when he came back Third street. Capt. Garrett brought Mails some dresses when he came back from the East. I thought she acted very ladylake and very nice. They acted like father and daughter. I thought myself he was a little bit particular about her. They occupied one room for a month and passed as father and daughter."

A flutter of interest was to be seen when a plump, little creature about 18 or 20 years old took the stand. It was the girl Josie Corbett, about whose induced her. She said when she got married that she would hold up her hand and tell her husband she was virtuous. I don't know whether Ella was there or not. Miss Keyes never was at the house when I was there. She made a mark of some instrument, but never showed it to me. She called the instrument a willow switch, I think. She took a piece of paper and made the marks with a pencil.

"She said she had Edgecomb right under her thumb, and could send him to the penitentiary for abortion. She resterday in the County Clerk's office by Mrs. Mary Presinger against George Presinger, her husband.

As near as can be learned from developments that have already come to the surface, a singular state of affairs exist between the principals in this suit. Mrs. Presinger claims in her complaint that her husband has accused her of peing unfaithful and has cused her of being unfaithful, and has not only treated her in a most brutal not only treated her in a most brutal manner, but he has threatened to take her life, and for these reasons she asks for a decree of divorce, $250 alimony and $50 attorney's fees. She further claims that he has not provided for her for some time past, and declares that she will not live with him longer.

Shortly after Presinger was served with the summons and complaint by a Deputy Sheriff yesterday morning, he and his attorney appeared before Judge Wade and asked for a writ of habeas corpus. The writ sets forth that the complainant's wife, Mrs. Mary Presinger, is restrained of her liberty by one Isaac Thomas, who took her away from her husband by force and fraud, and is now keeping her concealed in some place unknown to petitioner, and for these reasons the prisoner prayed that she be brought into court. A Deputy Sheriff was sent out, armed with the proper documents, to bring Mrs. Presinger and all persons consome place unknown to petitioner, and o'clock, the time fixed by the Court for the hearing of this singular case.

At the appointed time Mrs. Presinger, two lady friends, and several witnesses walked into the courtroom. Presinger and his attorney, and Thomas, the man who is accused by the mournful husband of having caused all the trouble, had already arrived. The two rivals sat and eyed each other in anything but a pleasant style, but neither made a move to spill blood, although the officers expected some kind of trouble as soon as the two men

As soon as Mrs. Presinger entered As soon as Mrs. Presinger entered the room, her husband, who is tall, and light complexioned, and who looks as if 45 hard summers had whistled through his scant locks, got up and walked over to his wife and took a seat by her side. He began to talk to her in a most affectionate manner, and her in a most affectionate manner, and she coyly toyed with his watch charm. This performance was kept up some 10 minutes when Judge Wade called Mrs. Presinger to the witness stand. Judge King, who appeared for the wife, asked her a few questions as to where she lived, and whether she was restrained of her liberty by any person or persons. She replied that she is living at the Moro Castle at the present time and that she was at liberty to come and go as she pleases.

Mr. Presinger's attorney asked her a young wife.

He accused her of all kinds of infidelity, and finally armed himself with a couple of shotguns. He threatened to shoot both his wife and Mr. Thomas. and his wife claims that he came near carrying out his threat several times. He quit work and seemed to have no desire but to watch his wife.

The couple kept up their quarrels until a few days ago, when Mr. Presinger was arrested in Justice Savage's court on complaint of his wife, who charged him with an assault. This case was to have come up yesterday morning, but the complaining witness did not appear and the case was dis-missed.

did not appear and the case was dismissed.

Just after the last quarrel Mrs. Presinger left her husband's home, and he could not find her. He believes, however, that she was induced by Thomas to leave him, and also that Thomas had her concealed in some place against her will, hence the writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Presinger is of the opinion that

Thomas wants to marry his wife as soon as she can get a divorce, and he intends to fight the case to the bitter end.

From a legal standpoint this is the first time that a husband has attempted to get possession of a runaway wife through the writ of habeas corpus, and Mr. Presinger made such a failure yes-terday that it is doubtful whether any one else will attempt to work that scheme again soon.

Among Rival Factions in China That there will be trouble in China-

There are two factions who have been quarreling for some time, and the other night when one of the opposition factions learned that Ah Him, who belongs to the other, had been instrumental in the kidnaping of the Chinese woman at Bakersfield a few weeks ago, they armed themselves, and several hundred gathered about the house in which Him re-Fred Smith and his men happened to be after Him at the same time, and as there were several police officers in that quarter, violence was prevented.

One of the best generals among the highbinders has been sent for to come down from San Francisco, and as soon as he arrives it is expected that the fun will begin.

The Chief of Police and his men are keeping a close watch on the high-binders, and at the first indication of a row the ring-leaders will be placed under arrest. The row will probably begin in the Chinese Theater, as that place is held by one of the contending factions.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Why Sewage Does Not Commingle Los Angeles, Aug. 15. - [To the Editor of THE TIMES. First—I wish to call public attention to a statement made in the Tribune, August 9th, by our City Engineer, and show by fair criticism that the said statement, while in itself more or less true, cannot justly be applied to the question at issue.

Mr. Eaton says: "It has been dem-onstrated that the foulest sewage can be rendered perfectly clear by simple aeration, and there can be no better agent to perform this than the unceasing movement of the surf, which at every tumble envelops each atom of water with a fresh supply of air."

Now, it is not necessary for me to explain that the purest spring water contains from 12 to 20 cubic inches of carbonic acid gas to the gallon. And that sea water contains from 1600 to 1800 grains of salt to the gallon. Neither is it desirable to show how the that sea water contains from 1600 to 1800 grains of salt to the gallon. Neither is it desirable to show how the clear spring water absorbs the gases or how the sea water becomes imbued with chloride of sodium, for it is well known by every school boy that our best drinking water does contain more or less of carbonic acid gas; in fact, it is one of the elements of water. I merely suggest these facts as a basis of argument, to prove the inconsistency of the Eaton statement, and its misapplication to the question expressed.

I admit that river water, or water in motion, contains less carbonic acid gas than spring water, or the waters of a torpid confined body, and that this is performed by the simple operation of aeration; but I maintain that the same effect actually applies to sewage water in transit through a sewer. The friction caused by transit of sewage water (and the more rapid the transit, the more rapid the friction) liberates in a measure the carbonic acid gas, which the moment of its freedom scorns the company of the other elements of water, and ascends into the air, or, into the vacuum of the sewer, as the case may be. If it escapes rapidly finto the outer air there is no danger, whereas, if it cannot so escape, it will continue to ascend and will become voluminous and deadly in the sewers, and at the upper ends of the tributary drains to the main sewers, until it finds its way into our dwellings and sleeping apartments through the waste pipes, the soil pipes and the pervious traps.

Withregard to the sewage matter in a soluble condition, it will be safe to infer that it would pass through the sewer to the ocean in about four or five hours, and in that short space of time the constituent parts of its animal excretion or vegetable compounds would not materially decompose, and would be carried to the ocean in their original condition. This shows plainly that the carbonic acid gas in the sewage organisms in transit, because, first, the established laws of chemistry compel fermentation of matter and disinte condition. This shows plainly that the carbonic acid gas in the sewer would not emanate from the sewage organisms in transit, because, first, the established laws of chemistry compel fermentation of matter and disintegration of structures to accomplish the production of gases. So, under these foregone conditions, the soluble matter contained in the sewage water at the time it would enter the ocean, would be in a comparatively innocuous condition. Such being the case, and supposing that the specific gravities of the sewage matter and the saline water of the ocean did not materially differ, a ready assimilation would be the consequence, and the probabilities are that the tumbling of the surf would tend to liberate the remaining carbonic acid gas not liberated by transition, and the falling of the heavier organisms would be purified in the density of the salt water. But the actual state of affairs on the Thames, at Southampton and numerous other places, prove the contrary. They prove beyond question that the two elements do not readily assimilate on account of their opposite gravities, hence the filthy banks of the channels and the beaches of the bays, and hence these nuisances that speak louder and more graphically than I can portray with pen and brain.

Decomposition of animal and vegetable matter does not readily take place in ocean water, for do we not recognize the qualities of salt as a preservative, alike in flesh, fish, vegetables, etc.' So that, if there were no tides to cast back upon the beach or banks of a channel, these soluble organisms, no had smells would occur in the vicinity of the salt water. But the density of the salt water. But the actual state of affairs or the Thames, at Southampton and numerous of the salt with the two elements do not readily assimilate on account of their opposite gravities, hence the filthy banks of the channels and the beaches of the bays, and hence these nuisances that speak louder and more graphically than I can portray with pen and brain.

Decomposition of animal and

alike in flesh, fish, vegetables, etc.? So that, if there were no tides to cast back upon the beach or banks of a channel, these soluble organisms, no bad smells would occur in the vicinity of an outfall sewer, no carbonic or sulphuretted hydrogen gas would be generated after the two elements of water came in contact.

The transition of soluble organic animal and vegetable matter as it comes in contact with the natural sulphates and carbonic acid gas of the water readily generates sulphuretted hydrogen gas. This and the carbonic acid gas liberated by friction in transit through the sewer naturally commingle and travel together upward to its confined and enforced destination, so that even while sulphuretted hydrogen gas, with its obnoxious effluvium, is not dangerous, it is a sign of danger. Its effluvia explains at once the existence of sewer gas in the premises and compels a ventilation in one shape or another. And this is borne out by analyses which prove that all popular springs of sulphur water contain more sulphuretted hydrogen gas in proportion than does the foulest sewage of the London sewers. ANOTHER HOTEL

Mr. Beaudry's Project for New High Street.

In the course of an interview with ex-Mayor Beaudry yesterday a reporter of The Times learned the fact that that gentleman is preparing to again manifest his faith in the future of the city by erecting a grand hotel on his New High-street property, near Temple street.

In response to a query as to what he thought of the outlook, he said em-thought of the outlook, he said emphatically:

"I believe we will have better times here shortly than ever before. All the East is anxious to come here, and be free from fires, floods and cyclones. The evil effects of the boom are passed and we are settling down to legitimate business. What we do need is more and better hotels. And, by the way, I am preparing to do something in this line myself. I intend to construct a botel that will be a credit to the city and an attraction to tourists, on my New High-street lot. That will give a front on that street of 485 feet, with five or six stories on New High, and, if the Council makes a traffic grade on Buena Vista street, extending through to that street, with about 190 feet front on Buena Vista."

As to when the work would be commenced, Mr. Beaudry said: "It takes time to perfect the necessary details, and the Council has not yet decided about the grade on Buena Vista street. I don't want to have plans prepared for a front on New High street alone, as that would not utilize my property to the best advantage. But when I get at it, it will be pushed through. It will require some time and a big lot of money, and I want it to be worth looking at when I get it finished."

MUTUALLY ARRESTED.

Man and Wife Make an Early Call on the Police. Readers of THE TIMES will rememer the shooting scrape that took place in the private rooms of Attorney W. W. Stewart, on Los Angeles street, about a year ago. Stewart and his wife had not been living happily together for some time, and on this particular evening he went home rather earlier than usual, and was astonished to find his wife and a waiter in a down-town restaurant drinking been together. He drew his pistol as he entered the door and began to blaze away at the waiter. The waiter lost entered the door and began to blaze away at the waiter. The waiter lost no time in jumping through a window, and strange to say he escaped without a scratch. No arrests were made, and the matter was hushed up.

Since then the couple have been keeping very quiet, and it was believed that they had made up and were living peaceably together, but if one can judge from their antics yesterday morning, between 2 and 3 o'clock, their household is not as loving as it might be.

At the above-mentioned time Mr. and Mrs. Stewart walked into the police station in a state of mind that was anything but honeymoonish. They came without the aid of an officer, but it was evident to the most casual observer that one or both of them were under arrest, for they were hanging to each other with a grip that would do credit to a policeman.

When they reached a point about ten steps from the station door they came to a sudden and anything but a graceful standstill. Mrs. Stewart wanted to come on, but her better half had evidently changed his mind, for he was pulling back like a good fellow. His wife weighs at least about twenty pounds more than he does, and after quite a little scuffie she succeeded in getting a good grip on his arm and marched him into the station.

"Less go—hic—en zee private room," mumbled the attorney.

"Yes," lisped the wife, "less go in er private box,"" and the two stumbled into the private office, when the officer on duty in the office tollowed them. The wife was very anxious to have her husband locked up, but she could give no good reason why such a step should be taken, and the officer roid her to call around yesterday morning and state her case to the Police Justice. She did not appear yesterday, and it is supposed that they have made up once more.

in Oklahoma. One of her city treasurers has appropriated $10,000 of her funds.

THE carrying of the sewer bonds election means injunctions and indefinite delay in work for idle men. The defeat of the bonds means speedy work on a practical plan, and employ ment for hundreds.

PUBLIC sentinent is almost universally with Judge Field in the Field-Terry affair. This is not remarkable private traits cannot be urged in mitigation of his inexcusably outrageous public conduct.

THE gamblers are again becoming very confident. Some of them are at present negotiating for an entire second floor, in a prominent block on First street, between Spring and Main. They profess to believe that they can "fix" things with the present Chief. We both trust and hope that they are mistaken in this belief.

MEN who work for the city are now paid in warrants on the cash fund, which, on presenting for payment, the city treasury offers to shave, for 10 per propriety of such action on plied with the law and the Mayor's request, there would now be accrued interest in the treasury sufficient to pay demands for some time to come.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to call attention to the advisability of keeping a close watch on the reservoir above Temple street, which has been pretty full on several occasions, and which our correspondent thinks would do much damage to the lower portions of the city in case it should burst its banks. This reservoir broke away once, and did no special damage to property, but it might be different now that the surrounding country is more closely settled.

Los Angeles would not injure beautiful Santa Monica for anything,' says the Trombone, in one of its eructation exciting corner cards. Ex actly! "Come here, 'ittle tootsy wootsy, and take oo's nice physic!' Santa Monica evidently appreciates the situation, to judge by the following little melo-drama, from the Outlook, of that city:

First Citizen: What is that?
Second Citizen: Listen!
First Citizen: It's music.
Second Citizen: Yes, it's a Trombone.

Second Citizen: You bet,

Second Citizen: Tes, it's a Trombone.

Then the clear, distinct notes comes swirling through the air:

Bo-o-o-die! Bo-o-o-die!! Bo-o-o-die!!!

First Citizen: That fellow's got that down pretty fine.

Second Citizen: You bet,

COMPLAINT is made that the slots of the Temple-street cable railroad are, in many cases, so wide that buggies, although having wide tires, fall in up mented upon of face. He believes the although having wide tires, fall in up to the bubs of their wheels. So comon an occurrence is this, that when a buggy falls in, the driver who is 'posted" waits for a cable car, whose conductor and engineer proceed to cupy themselves with such work from pry out the wheel with crowbars, which 7 a.m. until 4 or 5 p.m., leaving them they carry with them. It is needless to say that a few repetitions of such yet, if they are late, or slovenly in aptreatment will ruin a delicate vehicle. pearance, they are reprimanded. Mer When to this is added the fact that on many streets car tracks are several inches above the grade, it may easily desert after a year's service. Men do be seen that driving in Los Angeles is not enter the army to become laborers, not altogether a pleasant pastime. A but soldiers. Our correspondent's few earnest suits for damages might teach these companies that the public who are well informed on the subject. have some rights which they are bound The matter is certainly worthy the to respect, even if the City Council don't think so, or don't care to give utterdour army is small, but it should be ance to their opinion.

ALMOST CONVERTED

The boodlers are gradually but surely being forced around to the position of THE TIMES on the sewage question. Their organ, which only a few days ago referred to the utilization of sewage as "sewer-farm nonsense," vester day admitted in reference to the proposition of R. S. Baker of the Laguna which we published, that "if Mr. Baker will put up a personal bond in a sufficient sum, it might not be a bad proposition."

Aha! That is quite a concession for you to make, Messieurs Boodlers! It is, then, no longer "Ballona or nothing." You admit that one of the few offers already received from lands owners south of the city "might not be a bad proposition.'

As to the remark about a "personal bond," that is merely a detail, as is indeed the question of what particular tract or tracts of land are to receive the sewage, and what, if anything, is to be paid to the city therefor. As we have already remarked, there will be no lack of offers as soon as there is any use in making offers. At present, by the grace of the Council, the Ballona route exclusively is before the people. Once that is disposed of, and offers on a practicable route solicited, there will, we are convinced, be a great number of propositions sent in, of which those hitherto submitted are only the forerunners. People are not going to the trouble of preparing elaborate plans until they know that there is a probability of their being utilized. Meantime, it is refreshing and encouraging to the missionary department of this journal to know that its efforts in disseminating the truth have already been so telling on a misguided contem porary as to lead it to confess that one of the few offers already made "might not be a bad proposition.' In the same article, the wavering boodle organ tries to cover its retreat by making a great fuss over the fact that none of the land-owners signing the propositions we published offer to pay the city anything. Such an objection certainly comes with bad grace from a journal which advocates a route costing $440,000 for the purpose of dumping the sewage into the ocean, when this system would cost less than $150,000; but, granting the pertinency of the objection, that is, we again say, merely a detail. Let us down the Ballona-grab scheme, and call for bids for the sewage, and then, where there are so many eager to take the sewage for nothing, there will be-mark our word-a number who will bid against CIVILIZATION is manifesting itself each other for it in substantial sums. and who will give "personal bonds,"

> All these things are details which can easily be settled, now that even the organ of the boodlers admits that to carry the sewage to a point south of the city, where it could be utilized, "might not be a bad proposition."

THEY CANNOT BE CAUGHT WITH CHAFF.

The boodlers are holding out more or less glittering promises of the manner in which work will be carried out, in the event of the indorsement of the Ballona scheme at the polls. According to these picturesque prevaricators, the interests of the brawny-fisted sons of toil are to be studied, above every thing else. In fact, the main object of this gang of particularly pure philanthropists is to furnish employment to the bone and sinew of the country, who are so dear to them that they sleepless nights in concocting schemes to give them work. Such palpable ro simply excites a smile on the part of Los Angeles workingmen, who possess far more practical sense than these schemers credit them with. They are not to be caught with such chaff. They cent. Apart from the question of the know very well that, once the big Ballona grab scheme should be voted, the part of the City Treasurer, it is a the "sons of toil" might go to Halifax, fact that, if the City Council had com- as far as the boodlers are concerned. and that, secondly, the voting of the Ballona scheme would at once be followed by injunction suits, which would indefinitely delay work.

The workingmen understand the situation perfectly well. They are not to be induced by the dulcet tones of an "organ" to act as cats, in pulling the Ballona chestnuts out of the fire, for the cunning boodle monkeys. On the 30th of this month they will be found at the polls voting "No," in order that work may speedily commence on a practicable system of sewerage, which will benefit the country and benefit them at the same time, by furnishing them labor and lowering the cost of cessaries

In writing this we refer, of course, to real workingmen, not to those chronic loafers whose vote can always be had for considerations ranging from two dollars down to a drink of whisky Such material will undoubtedly be corraled en masse by the boodlers, but we are convinced that a great majority of the bona fide workingmen will see their interest to vote against a job. which can do nothing but harm to all except the few schemers who are at the oack of it. The interests of the workingmen and those of all other good citizens are in this case identical

THE CAUSE OF DESERTION. correspondent, who claims 20 ears' experience in the regular army, writes to THE TIMES to give his view as to the cause of the frequent desercause to be the large amount of menial work which soldiers are compelled to perform around officers' quarters. In some cases, he says, men have to oclittle time to get ready for parade, and can be had. We can never secure such material under the present system.

In our local columns will be found a call for a meeting of citizens opposed to the Ballona sewer scheme, to be held on Saturday evening, at the Turnverein Hall. It is signed by many prominent people, and will doubtless be a crowded gathering. All who are interested in defeating this outrageous grab should make a point of being present. The growth of public sentiment against the boodle gramme, during the past couple of weeks, since THE TIMES has been giv ing facts and figures on the subject, is very marked and gratifying. At the present rate, it will not be a question of whether the Ballona scheme will be defeated on the 30th, but of how great the majority against the bonds will be. Don't fail to attend the meeting on Saturday.

THE New York Sun says: The soldiers' memorial arch that is to be erected in Brooklyn at a cost of $250,000 ought to be completed by the time of the opening of the international exposition in 1892, when all our works of art will be under the scrutiny of millions of critics.

How about the monument to the Nation's Great Captain, whom the whole civilized world admired, and, on his trip abroad, delighted to honor? Will the completed Grant monument proclaim to the representatives of thrones that republics are not ungrateful?

order to protect himself from attack he had better give up his seat on the bench. From what we have learned of the case we are satisfied that Terry and his wife had arranged beforehand this attack upon my brother, and with a view to forcing him to resent an insuit so that he might be shot and killed under such circumstances that the shooting would have the plea of self-defense to fall back upon.

"Had Deputy Marshal Nagle not been at hand the preconcerted programme of the Terry's would undoubtedly have been carried out, and my brother would have been siain. Judge Field would have resented Terry's attack. I know, and I suppose no one would doubt that he, unarmed as he was, would have been at once shot down."

Mr. Field continued: "Directly I heard the news of the shooting of Terry I telegraphed to my brother, who sent me an answer, in which he detailed briefly the circumstances. He characterized Judge Terry's attack upon him as a cowardly outrage, and cited the circumstances attending it as showing that it was premediated, and intended to force a collision, during which he (Judge Field) would have been shot down. He said Judge Terry was regarded generally in the community as a dangereus man, and that the fact that he had threatened the lives of Judge Field and Judge Sawyer was widely known. Deputy Marshal Negle's action, he said, was indorsed as justifiable by the community as a dangereus man, and that the fact that he had threatened the lives of Judge Field and Judge Sawyer was widely known. Gen. William T. Sherman made a call yesterday upon Cyrus W. Field and had a talk with him about the shooting of exJudge Terry. Not long afterward the General was visited by a reporter who knew the General had been present at San Francisco during the troublesome days of 1855-57, and had taken charge of the military force then hurriedly organized. Gen. Sherman acknowledged that such was the case. "I know too much about affairs of that time in California," said he, "but I won't talk about them. I won't express an opinion bearing upon the present case. I don't need to. Justice Field is amply able to attend to the case. Anti-Cronin Wing Denounces the Stigma Cast on the Order by the Assassination of the Doctor.

By Telegraph to The Times. CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—[By the Asso Press. | The friends of the late Dr. Cronin held a section of the annual Clan-na-Gael picnic at Cheltenham Beach today, with large crowds present. The amusements consisted of athletic games, which were followed in the afternoon and evening by lowed in the afternoon and evening by speeches by Congressman Foran of Cleve-land, Hon. M. J. Ryan of Philadelphia, land, Hon. M. J. Ryan of Philadelphia, Congressman Lawler of Chicago, John De-voy of New York, Thomas P. Tuite of De-troit and others.

A long statement accompanying a prevoy of New York, Thomas P. Tuite of Detroit and others.

A long statement accompanying a preample and resolutions was read and adopted. It recognizes featly to this Nation as the first and highest obligation, and next thereafter pledges support to the cause of Irish liberty, to be secured under the leadership of Parnell and Gladstone. The statement then reads:

"Resolved, that we denounce with all the force of indignant language our utter abhorrence of the assassination, murder and moral assassination resorted to by the murderers of Dr. Cronin to cover up the embezzlement of money and betrayal of a people whose devotion to the cause of liberty too often makes them the victims of designing knaves.

"Resolved, that, knowing Dr. P. H. Cronn to have been a patriotic, high-minded, pure Christian gentleman, utterly incapable of playing the role of sycophant or falsely living the life of a spy, we brand as a most malicious libel and moral assassination the Infamous report that he was an agent of England. On the contrary, knowing him to be a defender of honesty and truth, we hereby declare it to be our solemn conviction that for his faithful adherence to the Irish cause, in honesty and truth, we hereby declare it to be our solemn conviction that for his faithful adherence to the Irish cause, in honesty and truth, he was foully murdered to pievent the exposure of the actual criminals who have dragged down that cause in blood and tears into the dust of our Gethsemane.

"Resolved, that the crime of this most atroctous murder calls for all the energies of our civilization for the speedy and extreme punishment of the law, and we pledge our abiding support to the authorities until every guilty man shall have answered to the law for his participation in the most devilish murder which haz reddened the annals of crime."

At Cheltenham Beach the most sensational feature of the day was a denunciation of Michael Davitt and Patrick Egan by John Devoy. This gentleman, in a long and impassioned speech, challenged not only the motive Congressman Lawler, in a vigorou speech, denounced Finerty as a liar, pol troon and seoundrel.

The speak-ers were escorted to the grove by Clan-naa large crowd of people today. The speakers were escorted to the grove by Clan-na-Gael Guards, Hibernia Rifies and Chleago Zouaves. It was after 1 o'clock whea they arrived. They were Senator Thomas F. Grady of New York, Rev. George W. Pepper of Ohio, Hon. O'Neil Hyan ef. St. Louis and Judge Fitzgerald of Cincinnati. An address, read and adopted by the audience, opened with a declaration of devotion to the laws and principles of the American Republic and unchangeable sympathy with the cause of Irish liberty, the plan on which it is to be worked for to be decided by the people of Ireland themselves. The address continues:

"We fully recognize further that destitute of those means of asserting their liberty, which would alone make revolution justifiable, we are willing to aid them in such peaceful measures as they may choose to adopt in bringing the Government of England to a sense of the duty that it owes to justice and to humanity by restoring to the Irish people the right to make their own laws and to live in self-respecting manhood upon their own self. It has been asserted by those instrumental in covering us with defamation that we wish to screen the murderers of Dr. Cronin. We meet here today, among other reasons, for the purpose of vehemently denouncing his atroclous murder, in our capacity as American citizens.

day, among other reasons, for the purpose of vehemently denouncing his atrocious murder, in our capacity as American citizens, but hold that as Irish-Americans we have no more right to be held responsible for that foul atrocity than has any other element of our body politic for crimes committed by persons to whom they are kindred. We devoutly hope that the officers authorized by law will succeed in bringing to justice the assassins of Dr. Cronin. We repudiate, both as American citizens and Irish-Americans, the claims made by the enemies of our race that the Irish element has any desire or any purpose to make the soil of America the theater of any acts of vengeance, because of feuds, factions or disagreements growing out of political differences or personal heartburnings. We return our sincere and most grateful thanks to Hon. John M. Thayer, Governor of Nebraska, for his defense of the honor of our race against the reckless slanders of a society of professional foreigners."

Ex-Congressman. Finerty made a stirring speech, in which he dengunced the Chicago press for its partisanship in the Cronin matter, intimating that the papers in their demands that the nurderers be hunted to justice were really attempting to make the Irish people odious with the stigma of the Cronin murder.

methods. In contravention of these criticisms, he propounded a series of questions as to the practical intelligence and ability of wine-makers and as to what extent ordinary wines of this State are equal to ordinary wines imported as average wines of the best wine countries, which questions he wished the Committee on Wines to consider and report on.

A warm discussion followed the reading of the paper. Those present who thought Prof. Hilgard had been attacked were opposed to further consideration of the paper, but the motion to refer to the committee was carried, whereupon Prof. Hussman tendered his resignation as chairman of that committee.

After some further discussion the difficulty was adjusted, and Edickman of Napamade some remarks, saying that a steady market could be found in New York among the middle and lower classes for the cheaper wines if it was disposed of in quantities like beer. He thought that an association should be formed to advance the minimum price of the purchase money to wine-makers, and then handle the goods in the market and divide the profit with the original owners. The remedy for the existing depression was honest and intelligent cooperation.

Other speeches advised the drying of wine grapes and distillation of poor wine into brandy, and the convention then adjourned.

The Brush Fire Near Garvanza-Ite Ravages - Local Happenings -The School Question-Here and There-A Favorable Boot and Shoe Decision-Personal News.

PASADENA, Aug. 15.—[Correspondence of The Times.] A dense cloud of smoke in the vicinity of Garvanza at 2 o'clock this afternoon led many people in this city to believe the little town was rapidly being eaten by the flery element. A TIMES reporter went in search of an elevated position to view the dark cloud of smoke, which was rapidly gaining in volume, and from the tower of the Webster block was led to believe the fire was in the arroyo. On arriving at Garvanza, the reporter hurried down the arroyo and from a point 150 yards south of the Santa Fé bridge saw sheets of flames climbing the adjacent hills in an easterly and westerly direction. The fire is said to have been started by a number of small boys, who, watching it spread so rapidly, became frightened and made themselves scarce. At 5 o'clock the fire had spread over the hills to a point back of the Jewett residence in South Pasadena, a distance of two miles. The scene reminded one of a prairie fire, the dry grasses and stunted trees burning fiercely and sending forth smoke in every direction. Up to this hour nothing had been done to check the flames, but shortly afterward the neighbors of Lincoln Park and South Pasadena carried water along the edges of the fire to prevent it spreading to their houses.
By nightfall the flames were under climbing the adjacent hills in an east-MORE SHOES TO SELL.

The suit brought by an eastern shoe firm against J. C. Fitzhenry was dismissed in the Superior Court at Los missed in the Superior Court at Los Angeles today on motion of the attorneys for the plaintiff. About three months ago an attachment was served on the shoe stock of Mr. Fitzhenry through the misrepresentations of an unreliable agent of the company on this coast. The attachment was for a bill of goods or claim amounting to nearly $700. A second attachment was made on the goods by Dr. Davenport, father-in-law of the defendant. Ever since the store has been closed an old gentleman of silver locks has been placed in charge by order of the Constable. Judgment for $10,000 was entered today in favor of Mr. Davenport, the eastern parties to settle the bill of costs, which will foot up to $1000. The agent of the company alleged fraud in the transaction, but seeing how things were going, came to this city on Tuesday with offers of settlement. Honor, however, was at stake, hence there could be no agreement. The friends of Mr. Fitzhenry will rejoice with him in thus coming out victorious.

The school district muddle now agitating the citizens of Pasadena re-sulted in a large meeting at Williams's Hall this evening.

E. E. Spaulding was elected chair-man and there were quite a number of speeches. The trustees were all pres-ent.

Judge Knight was called and said he was in favor of the San Pascual district being the same as it always has been without any changes. He had investigated it from a legal standpoint and thought the schools ought to be run harmoniously, as they had done before

Gen. Brierly said that he came out on the invitation of citizens and to represent County Superintendent Seamans. He referred to the high standard of the schools in Pasadena. He said the only way out of the school muddle will be to unite the two districts and they can be named afterward. He quoted the County Superintendent as saying that in view of the present state of affairs the parents of pupils only should vote for the three trustees. He did not think the petition being circulated will be passed by the Board of Supervisors.

James McLaughin Arrested-I.O.G. T. and Presbyterians in Conclave. SANTA MONICA, Aug. 15.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The local sewer troubles culminated today in the arrest of James McLaughlin, the proprietor of the Second-street cable line. It will be remembered that some time ago Mr. Spilman, the lessee of North Beach, brought into the courts injunction suits, so as to prevent the sewage of Ocean avenue being dumped junction suits, so as to prevent the sewage of Ocean avenue being dumped onto the sands. The town authorities took the matter up, and, seeing that nuisances were being made, issued an order to have them all abated within eight days. It would appear that Mr. McLaughlin disregarded these notices, for it was on a charge to that effect that he was arrested on warrant today. His case is under examination in Justice McElfresh's court.

The advantages of Santa Monica over her rival summer resorts are well shown in a comparison as regards the bathing facilities. Henry Steere arrived at the Arcadia today from Camp Dimond, Pacific Beach, and gives a distressing account of his experiences there. He says that the stingrays are terrible, and that six men were stung last week inside of one hour. At last regimental orders were issued forbidding the soldiers from bathing, except in an inclosed space in which dynamite was fired off daily to frighten away the pests.

IMPORTANT EVENTS RECALLED BY THE HISTORIAN.

The Defeat of Baume-The Battle of Camden-Hull's Disgraceful Surrender of Detroit - Eugene Aram's Fate and Expiation of His Crime.

Falling short of provisions in August, 1777, Gen. Burgoyne sent out an expedition from the Hudson, to procure supplies, horses for his dragoons and raise a body of loyalist recruits for his army. Col. Baume led 800 German dragoons and British marksmen with Canadians and Indians, who marched toward Bennington, Vt., where there was a considerable quantity of supplies defended by Col. Stark with a body of New Hampshire militia. Learning that Baume was at Hoosick, N. Y., Stark sent for War-Hoosick, N. Y., Stark sent for Warner's shattered regiment, gathered the fugitives from the disaster at Hubbardton, and prepared for action. The 15th was rainy, but the morning of the 16th of August dawned bright and clear and Stark hastened to attack Baume. The eneny wassurrounded and the Indians terrified on that account broke through the lines and field to the woods, but the Hessians fought bravely for two hours, when their powder gave out and they attempted to break through the line at the point of the bayonet. The charge failed, Baume was killed and the Hessians were captured. At this moment the jaded reinforcements sent by Burgoyne arrived and Stark was joined by some more men sent by Warner. The battle was instantly renewed, the captured British cannon being turned upon the newcomers under Brennan. apoured British cannon being turned upon the newcomers under Brennan. The conflict lasted till sunset, when the enemy retreated, leaving all their artillery and wounded behind them. The British loss was 1000, of which 700 were prisoners; that of the Americans was 100. THE SURRENDER OF DETROIT. It was on August 16, 1812, that Gen. William Hull consummated the disgraceful surrender of Detroit, along with 2500 stand of small arms, 25 iron and eight brass pieces of ordnance, 40 barrels of powder and an armed brig, the John Adams. One of the brass guns bore the inscription, "Taken at Saratoga, October 17, 1777." Hull after being paroled was tried and condemned to be shot for cowardice, but was pardoned by the President. He afterward succeeded in vindicating himself.

EUGENE ARAM'S FATE.

Eugene Aram, celebrated for his learning, ability and tragic fate, was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1704. born in Yorkshire, England, in 1704. His love of learning was a passion, and he mastered the Latin. Greek, Hebrew, Arabic and Chaldee languages. In 1758, some workmen digging about a cave discovered a skeleton, which was supposed to be that of Daniel Clark, who had disappeared in 1744, and had not since been heard of. One Housman was the last seen in Clark's company. He was accordingly arrested and on examination stated that the body was not that of Clark, but said that Clark was buried in another place which he named. Investigation seen implicated Eugene Aram, and it appeared that being in want of money, he, with Clark and others, agreed to borrow all the valuables they could, as if for Clark's wedding, then about to take place. To conceal the fraud Clark was afterward "removed." Aram conducted his defense with comsummate ability, but was convicted and executed August 16, 1759.

REMNANTS AND ODDS AND ENDS NEED WEEDING OUT.

Inexperienced and Careless Buyers Always Get Full Values at the People's Store-Come Early Today.

PEOPLE'S STORE,
LOS ANGLES, Aug. 16, 1890.
To weed out a lot of dormant possessions is the aim and duty of every one. Remnants, odds and ends, slow sellers, creep in before we are well aware of their existence. It requires our united efforts to constantly keep the weeding process in active operation. We regular stock than any establishment in town.

Under the flag of the old timer, remnants and slow sellers are kept on the shelves awaiting the arrival of the inexperienced and careless buyer, or the periodical visit of our country counting, for them to have the old stock and the old styles foisted upon them—at full value.

We have no patience with such transactions; our method is, when stragglers and slow sellers manifest themselves among our stock we out the price in two, and in a fearless and nervy manner let them fly, doing good to our selves and patrons.

Chronic Bronchitis.

Chronic Bronchitis is also an inflammation of the mucous membrane of bronchial tubes. But this form more often occurs later in life. When a cold settles on the lungs, the disease either ends in bronchitis or pueumonia. If it ends in bronchitis it usually passes off as a celd in the chest, and still the patient does not feel entirely well. He feels tired and languid, and is incapable of taking his usual amount of exercise, and experiences a shortness of breath, with more or less warmth in the paims of his hands Soon after this a cough appears, accompanied by an expectoration of thick mucous, followed by a heetic flush, loss of flesh and strength, and algorithms, and the parance of having a genuine case of consumption. But this is simply catarrh of the lungs, or chronic bronchitis.

In the is ter stages of the disease the mucous membrane of the larger bronchial tubes oftens, while in the smaller tubes and air cells of the lungs the mucous membrane becomes congested and inflamed. There are no cavities or tubercles in the lungs, but merely wasting away of the larger bronchial tubes, and death takes place from obstruction of the bronchial tubes and air cells of the lungs. The patient dies from exhaustion and suffocation, being unable to expectorate the mucous which accountuiates in the passage leading to take cold, at which the patient dies from exhaustion and suffocation, being unable to expectorate the mucous which accountuiates in the passage leading to take cold, at which time the mucous becomes clear and frothy, and it is not uncommonly the case that the patient dies in one of these attacks. Inhalation is the only system which will cure these diseases, and yet the treatment of the two forms are entirely different. In the one we must stimulate a healthy action. Acute Bronchitis.

This is an inflammation of the musous membrane lining the bronchial tubes, and is one of the most common of all the pulmonary diseases. It is a dangerous disease, as it prevents the oxygenation of the blood, and in many cases, particularly after it passes into the chronic stage, the substance of the lungs becomes seriously involved giving rise to what is very properly called bronchial consumption. In the acute form there is a sense of tightness or pressure across the chest, with considerable wheeling, severe cough and expensionable wheeling is common and the common purpose. The patient in some cases is obliged to sit up in bed, the oppression across the chest is so great, and the skin is clammy and prostration rapidly sets in, and in fatal cases there will be muttering delirium, come and death.
